

Introducing EdvalPTN

Parent teacher interviews are key events in the life of a school. It is on these occasions that the school is on show – how well do you do? Do you recognise any of the following?

- parents waiting for long periods between interviews
- parents unable to get all the interviews they wanted
- interviews granted preferentially to the most organised students
- students at greatest need (less organised) miss out
- large administrative effort

EdvalPTN can change all of that. Our case studies show that EdvalPTN can dramatically improve the distribution and allocation of interviews when compared with traditional paper-based systems (see a detailed study on the website). Parents are much happier with the service and therefore much happier with the school.

- More interviews granted
- No bias against less- organised students
- Less teacher time wasted
- Less parent time wasted
- More efficient use of resources
- Happy customers

See how EdvalPTN has transformed this school:

We moved from a student-led system of interview booking to using EdvalPTN. Parents were very impressed with the new system and many contacted the school to thank us for making the change. We were able to satisfy more interview requests and at the same time have fewer parents waiting at any one time. In turn this meant we were able to use a smaller (and warmer) venue. Teachers also benefited by having more streamlined interviews allowing some to finish early.
